usffwsoca "Stories that tell us about our own human experience inspire me. My favorite ones end with hope. Characters can be sad, and they can have these horrible moments. But altogether, their story can still be fun and uplifting. Life can be too depressing. When I was younger, I was in and out of the hospital. I watched Looney Tunes to distract me from what was going on. It made me laugh. Characters could pull hammers out of thin air and as an audience member, you just accept it. They could do anything. I hope I can make my audience laugh, and forget about whatever problems they're facing for a just a moment. That would make it all worth it."
